

THE RICHMOND BLUES SAVE WALTER COTTON.

(Continued From First Page.)

With Judge Goodwyn and Sheriff Lee, and it was ten minutes, perhaps, before the soldiers came out of the cars. When they entered the court-yard the citizens began to crowd about them. There were some veterans of the civil war, who were the friends of the day away, who in the sixties. Many of these went and shook hands with the youthful soldiers and chatted with them. Toward dark the court-house yard was cleared of all people except those who held passes.

GRAYS AWAIT THE CALL.
The Richmond Grays are in readiness should a call be made on them from Emporia. The men can get together on the train three hours after they are notified.

WIRES KEPT BUSY.
The special train which carried the Blues to Emporia yesterday afternoon had scarcely gotten out of the city and the Governor's order in his office at the Mansion, before telegrams from Judge Goodwyn again heated the wires. The Judge's first telegram stated that he understood the mob would be sent to the city and that he would be there to meet them. He asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

The telegrams were being received at the Mansion by Governor Tyler and Mr. Ben P. Owen, his private secretary. They asked the Governor's advice in the matter, to which the Governor replied that he being on the ground understand better.

COUGHS, CATARRH, CONSUMPTION, CURED.

Breaks up a Cough or Cold in one night.
Is the only guaranteed
Cure for Catarrh and Bronchitis.
Is the only treatment for Consumption ever recommended in the United States Health Reports.

IT CURES BY INHALATION
and your money refunded if it fails.
Send for five days' treatment free.
Sold by all druggists or sent by mail.
Hymel Outfit, $1.00. Trial Outfit, 25c.
THE R. T. BOOTH CO., Ithaca, N. Y.

them advocate making an attack upon the jail.
Major Cutchins has just called on the Governor for another company.

WILL ATTACK SOLDIERS.
EMPORIA, Va., March 24.—1:37 A. M.—Soon after the soldiers went back on duty it was reported that there were about one thousand men in the vicinity of the town, and that they would attack the soldiers, if necessary, to get the negro Cotton out of jail.

MAY LYNCH SHERIFF.
EMPORIA, Va., March 24.—2:25 A. M.—The acting sheriff has gone out to where a number of people have congregated, to plead with them not to attempt to attack the jail. The citizens are highly indignant with him for calling the military out again. There has been even some talk of doing violence to the sheriff. Major Cutchins has told the soldiers to shoot to kill in the event a mob tries to take Cotton out of jail. Some persons have argued that the soldiers might fire over the heads of the mob and retire before overwhelming numbers, but the Major would consent to nothing of the kind.

NO CLASH LOOKED FOR.
EMPORIA, Va., March 24.—2:57 A. M.—At 2:50 o'clock Lawyer Southall addressed a large gathering of men just outside the court-yard. He pleaded with them to disperse. Several of the deputies, who had been sworn to assist in protecting the jail, also appealed to the crowd, and these deputies said they were sworn to protect the court-yard, and that they intended to do so. These appeals seemed to make very little impression. The crowd seemed to fear that the negro would be taken away.

Many of the men went away, but others remained. It is believed now that there will be no clash during the night between the military and the citizens.

AGREE TO DISPERSE.
EMPORIA, Va., March 24.—3:00 A. M.—There will be no trouble to-night as the crowd has agreed to disperse, and most of them have gone home. It is said they were assured that if they would disperse efforts would be made to have the military removed to-day.

MORE TROOPS REQUIRED.
Company A of the Blues Ordered to Scene of Trouble.
Governor Tyler was up all night in an effort to keep posted of the situation at Emporia.

At 11:30 o'clock last night the Governor received a telegram stating that twenty-five deputies had been sworn in and that the troops had been relieved of duty. The situation, however, changed as the morning grew near and about 1:30 o'clock another telegram came from Major Cutchins, which read:

"Again under orders. Trouble brewing. If you can send companies at once, do so."

Still another telegram followed at 2 o'clock, which read:

"Send companies at once."
The Governor responded as follows:

"Will get troops together as fast as possible. Keep me constantly informed."

At 3:35 o'clock Governor Tyler telephoned the train dispatcher of the Atlantic Coast Line, telling him to have the train in readiness to transport more troops to the scene of trouble. A train was immediately made up and placed in charge of Conductor Williams and Engineer Bradshaw, and consisted of a baggage car and passenger coach.

Company A of the Blues, Captain Cheatewood commanding, was ordered out. Owing to the hour, some little difficulty was experienced in getting the men. They were mustered at the Blues' Armory, Ninth and Cary Streets, and expected to be ready to leave by 7 o'clock.

BLUES ORDERED OUT.
Company B Promptly Responds to the Call to Arms.

The business section of Richmond yesterday was in a turmoil owing to the prompt action of Governor Tyler in replying to the request of Judge W. Samuel Goodwyn, of Emporia, who requested assistance in suppressing a mob at that place that was attempting to take a prisoner from the jail for the purpose of lynching him.

When the request was made the Governor acted promptly, once calling upon the Adjutant-General, who communicated with Major Sol Cutchins, of the Blues Battalion. Within a few moments messengers were flying hither and thither, seeking the members of the organization at their places of business.

The work of getting the Blues together was not an easy one, for their places of business were so widely separated, but within two hours an amimated scene presented itself at the Blues Armory on Ninth Street. Men without their uniforms were transforming themselves into the Blues, and the Blues into uniformed soldiers, with an eagerness and a determination that denoted they wanted to do their duty in upholding the majesty of the law.

In the mean time, the management of the Atlantic Coast Line had been communicated with, and before the Blues were ready to move a special train was awaiting them at the depot.

THE TELEGRAMS.
The telegraphic correspondence between the Governor and the authorities of Greenville county was voluminous.

The first telegram received by the Governor was as follows:

"Emporia, Va., March 23, 1900. A. M. 'Governor Tyler, Richmond, Va.: 'Have prisoner at Stony Creek. Send to Petersburg jail. Mob will lynch prisoner if he should come on freight train here."

"W. SAMUEL GOODWYN, 'Judge.' The reply of the Governor was as follows:

"Richmond, Va., March 23, 1900. 'Judge W. Samuel Goodwyn, Emporia, Va.: 'Direct order to take prisoner to Petersburg."

"J. HOGE TYLER, 'Governor.' In a short while this reply came from Judge Goodwyn:

"Emporia, Va., March 23, 1900. 'Governor Tyler, Richmond, Va.: 'If prisoner is brought here this morning on 11 o'clock train, mob will lynch him. Please send company of soldiers here at once to protect him. The company can come from Franklin. Answer quick."

"W. SAMUEL GOODWYN, 'Judge.' This was supplemented a little later by the following:

"Emporia, Va., March 23, 1900. 'Governor Tyler, Richmond, Va.: 'I have a prisoner in jail here, who assisted in killing two of our citizens yesterday, and was forced to flee him in the woods last night. Mob entered jail in order to lynch him. If prisoner should remain here over night without troops to protect him, I think he will be lynched."

"W. SAMUEL GOODWYN, 'Judge.' To the last message Governor Tyler promptly wired:

"Richmond, Va., March 23, 1900. 'Judge W. Samuel Goodwyn, Emporia, Va.: 'Will get troops there as soon as possible."

"J. HOGE TYLER, 'Governor.' COMPANY B GOES.

Company B of the Blues, was the company assigned to perform the duty, although members of Company A who desired to do so were permitted to go. The roster of Company B follows:

First Lieutenant, Thomas A. Spencer; Second Lieutenant, Wm. N. Jones; Sergeants, A. T. Brock, J. L. Young, Jr.; T. M. Hobson, John Mayo, A. H. Sands; Corporals, L. D. Fendley, M. B. Rudd, Walter Holliday, R. J. Burwell, Clifton M. Miller, Conle Grover, L. W. Brander, William Cameron, Jr., Privates, E. T. Taylor, R. E. Peyton, Jr., H. P. Lefebvre, W. F. Lefebvre, D. H. Lynch, Jr., G. P. West, H. D. Bates, P. W. G. A. F. Chalkley, L. D. Bates, L. D. Bates, L. D. Bates, J. B. Harvie, L. R. Mays, G. D. Cheatham, John Werth, J. A. Taylor, J. R. Hart, L. D. Cherry, T. G. Carroll, F. D. Harrison, J. O. Robertson, J. E. Boleauze, W. E. Breazeale, E. M. Taylor, H. C. Macer, R. E. Jeter, Jr., Joseph Conway, W. G. Henry, Andrew H. Thacker, Thomas V. England, T. S. Geanelman, Stuart Cooke, R. M. Bldgood, M. R. Lloyd, W. J. Harvie, Julien Binford, Jr., J. R. Ryan, W. D. Carr, W. A. Loving, Jr., R. W. D. Rogers, J. P. Wilson, George W. Goddin, M. W. Hubbard, Ransom Gay, R. A. Smith, J. T. Goddin, Jr., W. H. Granberry, M. C. Daughtry, G. A. Lathrop, Jr., J. O. Steger, Mayo Cabell, J. F. Knowles, M. H. Harrison, J. H. Harrison, E. M. Sydney, H. B. Ruffey, P. F. Martin, C. R. Blanton, A. A. Slater, C. M. Newton.

The entire company did not go, as it was with great difficulty that the men could be notified. A sufficient force went, however, to handle almost any crowd of unauthorized persons.

The plan arranged by the Governor was to take the prisoners from the mob and bring them either to Petersburg or Richmond for safe-keeping.

FOUR ADDITIONAL ARRESTS.
At 2:05 a telegram was received from Judge Goodwyn, in reply to a query from the Governor, asking for more troops.

"Telegram received. Troops are absolutely necessary to protect prisoners. They should bring provisions. Four more murderers just caught at Jarrett's Depot. I have them under guard on their way to jail. Crowd increasing."

"W. SAMUEL GOODWYN, 'Judge.' At the same moment a telephone message was received from Major Cutchins, stating that the company was ready to move.

The query sent by Governor Tyler was in reply to the following, that was sent at 12:51 by Judge Goodwyn:

"I am informed that if troops are sent here my life is threatened."

"W. SAMUEL GOODWYN, 'Judge.' The Governor's reply was:

"Do I understand that neither you nor the sheriff desire troops sent. Answer quick."

"J. HOGE TYLER, 'Governor.' He also duplicated the query to the sheriff.

Closely following, came another from Judge Goodwyn, as follows:

"Mob is made up to lynch prisoners to-night. I have twenty-five guards around jail, until troops."

"W. SAMUEL GOODWYN, 'Judge.' Shortly after receiving the last message from Judge Goodwyn, Governor Tyler got the following from Sheriff Lee, of Greenville county:

"I concur with the Judge in request for troops; unable to control mob."

SCHEDULE DISARRANGED.
On account of getting the troops together the Atlantic Coast Line schedule was greatly thrown back, and the trains along the entire line were delayed. As soon as the order came for a special train to convey the troops to Emporia, the Coast Line dispatcher at once made out the schedule, ordering all trains to give the special the right of way, and stating at what stations they would pass it. On arriving at the stations the trains took the siding, and the special followed. The train, but none came. After waiting as long as possible for the soldiers to leave, the dispatcher had to countermand the orders and the trains were wired to continue their way toward Richmond. In this way the entire schedule was greatly delayed and the system entirely thrown out.

GOVERNOR'S AUTHORITY.
The action of the Governor in sending troops is authorized by section 368 of the Code, which reads as follows:

"In case of any breach of the peace, tumult, riot, or resistance of law, or imminent danger thereof, it shall be lawful for the sheriff of any county, or the mayor of any city to call upon the Governor for aid, and, in cases when the emergency is such as not to admit of this delay, upon the commandant of any division, brigade, regiment, or company, and it shall be the duty of the commanding officer of the division, brigade, regiment, or company upon whom such call is made to order out, in aid of the civil authorities . . ."

At 2:35 the train with fifty-eight men, rank and file, in charge of Major Cutchins, left the depot for Emporia. Several hundred people there to bid the soldiers good-bye.

At the last moment the Governor decided that it would be better to remain at home, as many other important matters demanded his attention.

The soldiers were furnished with twenty rounds of ammunition and carried rations for two meals.

Just as the train pulled out Governor Tyler received a telegram from Judge Goodwyn in reference to another matter. It said:

ANOTHER MURDER.
"A man named Stony, living just this side the North Carolina line, of Northampton county, N. C., murdered Ben Owen, of Greenville county, and is now at his home in North Carolina. Is there any way of having him arrested?"

"W. SAMUEL GOODWYN, 'Judge.' The Governor replied that he would telegraph the Governor of North Carolina, asking him to hold Stony until requisition papers could be secured by the Sheriff of Greenville county.

"I am sorry this thing happened," said the Governor.

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.
"Mytic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose is usually beneficial. It is sold by WAGNER AND OWENS & MINOR DRUG CO., Richmond, Va.

Saturday's Book-Day.

The Latest Fiction in Paper, 29c.
Gloria Mundi; Dross, The Pride of Jamaica; The Westcotts; The Diver; The Adventures of Captain Kettle; by Cutcliffe Hyne; The Choir Invisible; The Celebrity; Under the Red Robe; The Massacre, 18c.

For 5c.—A Special Sale of 50c Books.
Among them Fort Frayne, An Army Wife, A Wounded Name, Warrior Gap, A Garrison Tangle; by Capt. Charles C. Smith; The Westcotts; The Diver; A Social Mirage, by Mrs. Frank Leslie; His Neighbor's Wife; The Honor of the Princess; by Gibson Villiers; The King in Yellow, by R. W. Chambers; Street Danger, by Ella Wheeler Wilcox; The Man from Archangel; A Case of Identity, by Conan Doyle; A Lodging in the Night, The Paradox of Parity, Nurse Eva, by The Duchess; The Light that Failed, by Kipling; Cyrano de Bergerac, Agnes, Innocent, by Mrs. Oliphant, and others.

For 10c.
Young Wistley, Prisoners and Captives, by Henry Sargent; Meritman; Witch Hazel, Ruby's Reward, That Dowdy, Tiny Max, Edrie's Legacy, Two Keys, Faithful Shirley, The Old Homestead, by Derman Thompson; Ishmael, Self-Raised, Inez, Macaria, Lena Rivers, Pestem and Sunshine, The English Orphans, Homestead on the Hillside.

Authorized Actresses' Souvenir Books.
A unique remembrance of your favorite actress, with highly artistic illustrations of scenes from the most interesting plays now before the public: Oglia Netherlands, in Sapho; Julia Marlowe in Barbara Frietche; Julia Arthur in The Great Expectations.

Brother Officers.
25c.
Governor Tyler last night. "I had hoped to have gone through my whole administration without being called upon to order the military upon any such errand, or, at least, upon an errand at all."

"But the majesty of the law must be upheld, and if necessary I shall order every company in the State."

The Governor remarked pleasantly about the fine, mainly appearances of the soldiers, and he walked from a pleasant salute as they sped out of Union Station yesterday afternoon.

Luncheon of Society American Women.
The Society of American Women in London celebrated its second birthday on Monday, March 5, by a luncheon-party, at the Hotel Cecil, London. The party was a gathering, to which, aside from the members of the society, some few important and distinguished guests were invited. It is astonishing what a brave showing 115 women can make. In the afternoon the women of the society and the women's dinner are very ordinary forms of entertainments. Over here, however, festivities at which only the fair sex are represented, are decidedly out of the common.

The Society of American Women, whose entertainments are confined to the feminine sex, is the Society of Women Authors, and they give biennial or triennial dinners, holding a new and varied form of entertainment, and giving a dinner to the women of the society.

A Matinee Conversation.
The following conversation between two plump young women went on during an act at a matinee. The one in the white tulle was talking to the other, who was sitting next to her. "Why, Nannie, you are a lot thinner than you were last month." The other replied: "Am I? You are a darling. You have lost flesh, too." Thereat white tulle hat said: "Do you think so? It's awfully nice of you to notice it. Are you doing anything to do it?" "No; are you?" "Good gracious, no! Isn't he (meaning the leading man) perfectly lovely?" "Isn't he? Did you ever take such a liking to a fellow? I've heard of Missenger and Kichy." "I've heard of you, too. I do know it. It's very good."

"Yes, I have heard so; the fizzly salts kind, and you don't have to diet any. I suppose you are dieting?" "Oh, well, some (guiltily). I exercise quite a lot. Can you suggest to me what to do?" "I hear it is very good." "No, I don't do it, but I know a girl who does—she says it takes the flesh off perfectly wonderfully. She does it." "Has she a nice figure?" "Oh, lovely. Do you take the Missenger and Kichy before or after meals?" "Oh, I don't think it makes any difference. Do you?" "I think it is really better after meals. How long do you have to take it before it does any good?" "Oh, the second week you can see a difference." "I don't think it shows till a month, but if you stick to it it will really do it." "Isn't it wonderful, and it takes it off the hips, don't you know?" "How nice. My bit of harm says it does not hurt a bit, but I have heard it's just a natural remedy." "Yes, and it's a great deal healthier not to be fat. How much water do you use with it?" "About a glassful. It makes quite a nice drink, too, so refreshing."

"The doctor said to drink down, both declared that the play was perfectly beautiful, and tulle hat said: "I think I shall try Missenger and Kichy." The other thought she would, too, and the funny part of it was that both of them had been taking it regularly the time they were for three months—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Place She Filled Completely.
When she had finished her remarks relative to something he had done that did not meet her approval, he spoke.

"I don't see why you say that," he said, "I don't see why you say that."

"What office?" she demanded. "Speaker of the house," Stray Stories.

Peculiarities of Ants.
Something new and interesting about ants was learned by a Mount Airy florist yesterday. For a week or so he had been bothered by ants that got into boxes of seeds which rested on a shelf.

To get rid of the ants he put into execution an old plan, which was to place a meat bone close by, which the ants soon covered, every one deserting the boxes of seeds. As soon as the bone would become thickly inhabited by the little creeps he tossed it into a tub of water.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of glass paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of glass paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of glass paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of glass paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of glass paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of glass paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of glass paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of glass paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of glass paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of glass paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of glass paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a sheet of glass paper, believing that the ants would never get to the bone, but would get caught on the sticky fly paper while trying to reach the food. But the florist was surprised to find that the ants, upon discovering the nature of the paper trap, formed a working force and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper, and pulled the ants on the paper.

The ants having been washed off the bone was put in use as a trap again. Yesterday the florist thought himself that he would save trouble by placing the bone in the center of a